

Tribal College Research Internship Program - Digital Content Creator Intern Fall 2025

GRID Alternatives - National Tribal Program, is offering a position for a Tribal College Research Internship - Digital Content Intern as a part of our internship program for students that are attending or have recently had engagement with a Tribal College or University. This intern will learn about planning and creating content across GRID's Tribal digital platforms to expand our brand presence, engage our supporter base, including donors, job trainees, clients, and partners, and to advance social and climate justice.

This is a paid, internship position to train highly motivated and enthusiastic individuals so they can gain valuable experience in the solar and non-profit industries. The internship aims to launch their career experience while they make significant contributions to the National Tribal Program and Tribal communities. Interns will work directly with our Workforce Development Team and our Tribal Communications and Outreach Director to support making GRID's mission to build community-powered solutions to advance economic and environmental justice through renewable energy.

Activities may include, but are not limited to, attending a monthly group intern check-in for an hour, attending bi-weekly individual check-ins with supervisors, creating social media content or toolkits related to the highlighting the activities of the National Tribal Programs upcoming events and opportunities. The final deliverables for the intern will be to complete a final poster board deliverable or portfolio highlighting their work to the National Tribal Program staff. The Internship will also include career development activities such as goal building and career/resume support and advising.

Priority for this internship will be given to Tribal College University students or those that have had recent engagement with a Tribal College/University.
